Session Update

The Second Regular Session of the 103rd General Assembly convened last Wednesday, Jan. 7, shortly after noon. The first week of session was largely filled with ceremonial procedures, and pre-filed legislation was read in for the first time. House Speaker Jon Patterson did not deliver an opening day speech, which typically outlines the legislative priorities of the House. President Pro Tem Cindy O’Laughlin delivered opening remarks that were largely broad policy statements involving economic growth and job opportunities, increased educational quality, better roads, private home ownership, safe neighborhoods, and less dependence on government.

As of now, 1,977 bills and joint resolutions have been filed since pre-filing began on Dec. 1. The House has filed 1,180 bills and 59 joint resolutions, and the Senate has filed 689 bills and 49 joint resolutions. Additional bills and joint resolutions will continue to be filed until the Feb. 27 deadline.

We anticipate the next few weeks to be fast paced as bills have begun to be referred to the various House and Senate Committees. Additionally, the House Budget and Senate Appropriations Committees will be working quickly to finalize the FY 2026 Supplemental Budget for those state departments that were only funded for nine months in FY 2026. Finally, Governor Mike Kehoe will hold the annual State of the State Address on January 13 where the FY 2027 Executive Budget recommendations will be released.
